Link Crew Training Camp

Link Crew Training Camp is a leadership training program for approximately 75 Conrad High School juniors and seniors. These students are primarily Hispanic and African American students from low socioeconomic backgrounds. They are the highest achieving students from Conrad HS and would typically be first generation college students. The purpose of holding the camp on a university campus is to provide the students with the opportunity to visit a college campus and learn about their options by listening to speakers from Admissions and Financial Aid, while also completing their leadership training curriculum.

"Our students face many challenges, one of which is the under-motivation to attend a university. Link Crew can do something about that." —Michael "Skip" Gragert, Conrad HS

Texas A&M University

"Link Crew is a great program for these highly motivated kids because they get to see Texas A&M and their options for college, while becoming leaders in their high school." —Dr. Robert M. Capraro, Associate Professor
